

Engineered to do what other windows can't.

Built in Calgary.

Designed for Living. Built for Life.

Six decades of engineering, not tradition

Everlast has spent sixty years pushing what a window and door can do. The Bruno family built an aluminum systems capability, an in-house glass division, and a hybrid product line that lets one manufacturer serve a single-family home and a condominium tower with equal precision. The experience shows up as a deeper engineering bench, and it shows up in openings other suppliers won't quote.

Built here, for here

Calgary is a factory, not a warehouse. Our plant on 30th Street SE manufactures to spec for the conditions Albertans build in: chinook swings, deep cold, hard sun, and wind that finds any weak seal. Building locally also tightens lead times and puts the people who built your product within a phone call.

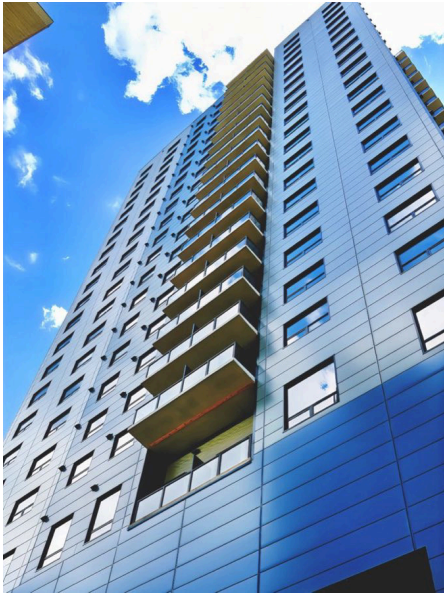

"A giant factory 40 hours away doesn't help much when a piece of glass breaks on site."
— DALLAS PAQUETTE, President

One supplier, home to high-rise

The full performance range from a single manufacturer. Series 100 and 150 vinyl for value and volume. Series 300 and 350 hybrid, where an aluminum exterior meets a vinyl interior for strength and thermal performance in one frame. The Series 400 "Altitude" aluminum system when you need the strength and architectural appeal of full aluminum. Add patio doors, storm doors, porch enclosures, and Napa Valley wood swing doors, and one relationship carries a project from a bungalow to an engineered high-rise entry.

Verifiable performance

Everlast runs its own glass division, patio door manufacturing, and partners with the very best suppliers to stay on the cutting edge. Every product is built to Canadian standards, third-party performance rated, and backed by Fenestration Canada membership. The engineering holds up under scrutiny, from the frame out.
